

John Spencer

John Spencer is the Professor of Social and Preventive Dentistry at The University of Adelaide. He is Director of the Australian Research Centre for Population Oral Health, a recognised University of Adelaide research centre incorporating both Colgate Oral Care supported Dental Practice Education Research Unit and the Australian Institute of Health and Welfare's Dental Statistics and Research Unit. In this latter role he has been a contributor of information to both national oral health and dental services policy in Australia.

Professor Spencer is recognised as a leading researcher in Oral Epidemiology and Dental Health Services Research. He is Associate Editor of Community Dentistry and Oral Epidemiology, International Advisor to Community Dental Health and a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the Australian Dental Journal.

Professor Spencer was awarded an International Association for Dental Research Distinguished Scientist Award in 2002. He received the H Trendley Dean Memorial Award for research in prevention and oral epidemiology. In 2003, Professor Spencer was 'Supervisor of the Year' at The University of Adelaide. In 2005 he received the Alan Docking IADR Science Award for his achievement in dental research from the International Association for Dental Research, Australian and New Zealand Division.